Job description

Job content

We are expecting students from engineering, architecture, biology, agriculture, economic, finance, design students and others interested in the project.

The design, architectural or engineering students will research, design, improve and test our products. The student will first have an theoretical part, researching the topic he/she will choose to develop. After the theoretical part we will do a practical part where we will design and maybe build the prototype of the product the intern will work on.

The other students from the field of economics, finance and marketing will work on improving our business model. The students will have first theoretical part and then, they will develop a marketing and financial strategy for our institute.

Every intern will have also tasks as finding other students or volunteer, making fund raising, finding partners and other help inside the institute. The main tasks will be adapted to the wish of a student (research, development, management, marketing,...).

As a small institute, students will have the opportunity to be involved in a daily activities such as finding partners, organizing meetings and events, marketing tasks, developing our products and other tasks.

You can find a brochure for internship on this link:

Notes

The student will have a mentor (a person inside the institute), a second mentor from the university (not 100%) and a tutor (a person outside the institute). We will provide help finding an accommodation, finding new student funds and other stuff. We will connect the student with ESN Koper (Erasmus organization) and with other national organizations.
